

Board Member: Mick Cornett

Mick Cornett is a former TV personality, businessman and four-term mayor of Oklahoma City. In 2018, he was named to Fortune Magazine's list of The 50 Greatest Leaders in the World.

His latest book, The Next American City, was published by Penguin/Random House. He now spends his time traveling to speak on his book and consulting for a diverse group of businesses.

Cornett is best known for helping to bring an NBA franchise to Oklahoma City and addressing the community's shortcomings in areas of health and wellness. His leadership to pass the transformational MAPS 3 initiative has spurred an enormous amount of private investment into the city.

Newsweek called him one of The 5 Most Innovative Mayors in America. The European-based World Mayor Organization named him the second-best mayor in the world, and Governing Magazine proclaimed him a Public Official of the Year. He was the president of the United States Conference of Mayors in 2016-17.

In 2018, he chose not to run for a fifth term as mayor.

He has a journalism degree from the University of Oklahoma and an MBA from New York University.
